How to get there from Lincoln, NE

Take 180 (10th Street) north out of town (it becomes Hwy 34), past the Highlands, Kawasaki, and the Gas and Shop, to HWY 79 (the road to Raymond and Valparaiso).

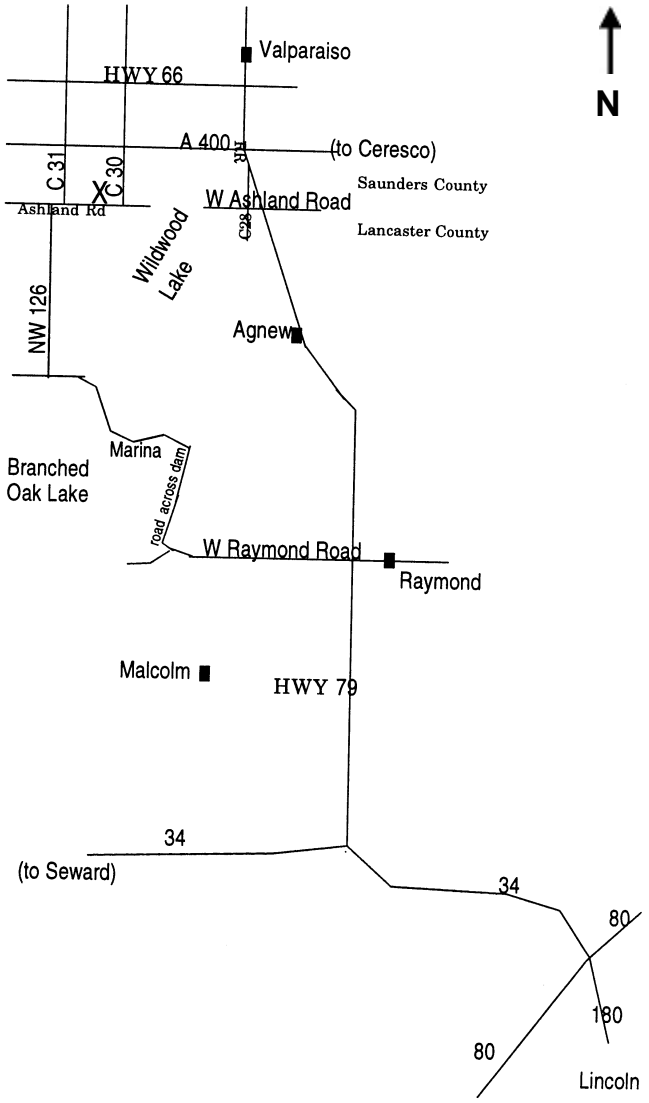
Go north (right) on HWY 79 about 13 miles to road A.

Take road A west (left) 2 miles to road 30.

Take road 30 south (left) 1 mile to the T-stop at Ashland Road.

Take Ashland Road west (right) 1/4 mile to our driveway, which is on the north (right) side of the road. The mailbox says 3028. There are two big telephone poles with a cross-pole at the drive. It's a one-story gray house and garage sitting at an angle to the road.

NOTE: On HWY 79 you will go past the Raymond Road intersection, past Agnew (blink and you'll miss it), and 1 mile past West Ashland Road and the Saunders County sign. Do NOT turn onto West Ashland Road from HWY 79 because it does NOT go through to our place (Wildwood Lake is in the way).

About 100 feet before road A is a sign indicating that road A goes east to Ceresco. Road A is paved going east but is gravel going west across the railroad tracks toward our place. Make sure you take road A, which runs straight east-west across 79, and NOT road 28, which comes at an odd angle from the left into 79 just south of road A (and actually runs north-south).


After you turn onto Ashland from road 30 and head west, if you see a pretty little lake on the south side of the road, you went too far. It is west of the driveway.
